R27 Improving Dialogue and Cooperation in the Mediterranean

Proposer: Europa Verde - Verdi / Egyptian Green Party

Resolution text

Improving Dialogue and Cooperation in the Mediterranean

- Resolution to be submitted to the Global Greens 6th
- 4 Congress, Incheon, 8 11 June 2023
- 5 The Global Greens aim at reinforcing dialogue among member parties especially
- 6 from different federations by promoting a global north-south approach based on
- mutual solidarity. The Mediterranean region, placed across three continents, is
- a fragmented context facing unprecedented environmental and social pressures
- leading to disruptive consequences: here the North-South divide is replicated at
- 10 scale.
- On the one hand, desertification, pollution and rising sea levels are
- complemented, among the others, by new and old international disputes, an
- evolving demography and a labor market designed to marginalise women, young
- people and migrants. On the other hand, the challenges posed by the ecological
- transition will inevitably have an impact on the mutually dependent economies of
- the region. In turn, these adjustments will affect workers and local
- communities. In order to enable a Just Transition in the region (and globally),
- 18 the upcoming transformations require solutions resulting from a pluralist
- process where environmental and social impacts are equally considered.
- The region, confronted with geopolitical turmoils and environmental pressures,
- is subject to instability and conflicts. As a vicious circle, environmental
- pressure creates conflicts and, in turn, conflicts cause severe environmental
- degradation. In reality, diversity and co-existence of different cultural and
- social models are potentially the greatest strengths of the region. However,
- 25 political fragmentation hinders efforts to accomplish a collective understanding
- 26 of the climate fragility of the region. One way to overcome regional differences
- stands in the historical necessity to implement a real Climate Diplomacy.
- 28 The challenges the region is exposed to are similar and intertwined:
- Mediterranean green parties are in a perfect position to team up and deliver an
- evidence-based assessment of the regional needs. In addition, they have the - capacity to come up with shared solutions capable of grasping the unitary,
- though fragmented, dimension of this region.
- 33 Although it is apparent that the geopolitical centre of the world is shifting
- towards Asia-Pacific, the constant evolution of the Mediterranean region will
- not slow down. The extreme sensitivity of the region is also recognised at UN
- level, including at COP 27, where the UfM organized the Mediterranean Pavilion.
- 37 Already in the past, the Global Greens have shown an interest in exploring how
- to achieve a more structured approach to dialogue and cooperation in the
- Mediterranean region. However, currently, green parties from Mediterranean

- countries are lacking a forum to discuss common challenges, share knowledge and formulate proposals.
- The Global Greens, gathered in Incheon, state that:
 - Green parties from the Mediterranean have gained sufficient momentum to engage in multilateral dialogues and coordinate campaigns.
 - Member parties are encouraged to engage in joint initiatives aimed at understanding the common challenges and developing shared solutions.
 - The Global greens are ready to promote dialogue and cooperation among green parties and movements in the Mediterranean region.
 - The Global Greens recognise Climate Diplomacy as a fundamental tool to achieve a Just Transition, in the Mediterranean and globally.

Reason

43

46

The Mediterranean region, placed across three continents, is a fragmented context facing unprecedented environmental and social pressures leading to disruptive consequences: here the North-South divide is replicated at scale.

However, currently, green parties from Mediterranean countries are lacking a forum to discuss common challenges, share knowledge and formulate proposals.